PROFILE

Mr. White is the former Senior Airport Manager and Deputy General Manager for Operations at George Bush Intercontinental Airport (IAH), in Houston, Texas. He has over 50 years of aviation experience, and for the last 45 years he has held top management positions with airport authorities and airport consulting firms. He has managed and developed airports, passenger terminals, and cargo facilities in Shreveport, Louisiana; Gainesville, Florida; Jacksonville, Florida; Newport News, Virginia; Reno, Nevada; London, England; Toronto, Canada; Baghdad and Basra in Iraq; Quito, Ecuador; San Jose, Costa Rica; Liberia, Costa Rica; Barranquilla, Colombia; and Houston's George Bush Intercontinental Airport (IAH).

Mr. White has a reputation for understanding the business potential of airports, and especially their role as an "economic engine" for the community. He has a record of maximizing airport revenues and controlling costs, in an industry that rewards low cost operations.

Mr. White is a former U.S. Naval Officer and Aviator, having served as an aircraft carrier pilot in the South China Sea during the Viet Nam War and with the NASA Apollo Moon-shot Recovery Forces in the South Pacific. He has extensive experience in airport privatization projects in Great Britain, New Zealand, Turkey, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Colombia, Canada and the United States. Mr. White served as project manager in providing design review services and developing strategic business plans for Shenzhen International Airport (China); London City Airport, PLC (Great Britain); and Auckland International Airport, Limited (New Zealand).
